NC State’s First Annual Asian American Pacific Islander (AAPI) History Week: April 6-10, 2015

ASIA ‘Reveal’
Join us at 6:00 p.m. in the Talley Ocracoke Suite for ASIA’s (Asian Students in Alliance) unveiling. ALL students, groups and leaders are welcome. Come learn about ASIA, its new student leadership and its goals for the upcoming 2015-2016 academic year. Light refreshments will be provided.

Network with AAPI Faculty & Staff
At 5:15 p.m. in Student Health Center, Room 2301, find out just how many AAPI faculty/staff are here at NC State. Come and network with AAPI faculty/staff and learn how they navigate the university. Light refreshments will be provided. Please use the back entrance of the Health Center and buzz to be let in.

NAAAP Networking Social
At 7:00 p.m. in Innovation Hall’s Entrepreneurship Initiative, network with the NAAAP (National Association for Asian American Professionals) RTP chapter. Come meet area AAPI professionals, enjoy light refreshments, and enter a raffle for a chance to win FREE student memberships to NAAAP-RTP. For busing or parking information, please visit ei.ncsu.edu/about/contact-us.

Alex Wan: “Out to Lead”
At 6:00 p.m. in Witherspoon 201, come to “Out to Lead: Lessons from an Openly Gay Asian American Engineer, Businessman and Politician” (rescheduled from February). Atlanta City Council member Alex Wan has been proudly serving since 2010. As an openly gay Asian American community member and politician, Alex is also featured in the 2013 documentary, Breaking Through, which features openly gay politicians from around the nation. Listen to his experiences, advice and how he navigates his identity. This event is a collaboration between BLISS and GLBT-CA from the At Home in the World grant. Light refreshments will be provided.

I, Too, Am NC State
From 11:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. in the NC State Brickyard, participate in “I, too, am NC State.” AAPI students are often left out of discussions regarding diversity and inclusion as they are often perceived as a “model minority.” All AAPI students are invited to participate in having their photos taken as part of the “I, too, am NC State” photography campaign.

If you are a person with a disability and need accommodations to attend, please contact Natalie Nguyen at 919-513-9742 as soon as possible.
