AISES National Conference
Thursday, Nov. 1st – Saturday, November 3rd • Anchorage, AK
A delegation of members of the American Indian Science & Engineering Society (AISES) will represent NC State University at the 34th National AISES Conference. Students will interact with other students from across the country in efforts of recruitment, retention, and networking in the STEM disciplines. The National AISES Conference attracts the nation's brightest American Indian students, as well as professionals in STEM fields. The 3-day event includes a career fair, dynamic nationally-recognized speakers, panel discussions and workshops for students, educators, and professionals.

Native American Culture Night
Wednesday, Nov. 7th • 6:00 pm – 8:00 pm • 126 Witherspoon Student Center, Washington Sankofa Room
Join us for a night of storytelling, drumming, singing, and dancing. If the entertainment doesn’t interest you, maybe our traditional Native American Thanksgiving dishes and desserts will do the trick! Come out, enjoy and learn about our rich Native American heritage. Sponsored by the Native American Student Association (NASA) and the Department of Multicultural Student Affairs. For more information contact Derek Oxendine at droxendi@ncsu.edu.

Film and Discussion
Monday, Nov. 12th • 6:00 pm – 8:00 pm • 126 Witherspoon Student Center, Washington Sankofa Room
“Spirit of the Dawn” explores the dramatic changes in Indian education from boarding schools of the past, where children were beaten for speaking their language in school, to the more culturally-sensitive classrooms of today. On the Crow Reservation in southeastern Montana, we meet two sixth graders. Bruce Big Hall and Heywood Big Day III, as they participate in an innovative poetry class that encourages them to create beautiful poems celebrating Crow culture and history. Through the children, their parents and their teachers we see the strength and resiliency of a community fighting the constraints of the past to secure a future for its children. This event is sponsored by Alpha Pi Omega Sorority, Inc. For further information please contact Megan Jones at mijone17@ncsu.edu or Taylor Springs at tuspring@ncsu.edu.

18th Annual American Indian Heritage Celebration
Saturday, Nov. 17th • North Carolina Museum of History, Raleigh, NC • 12:00 noon – 5:00 pm
Each year, in honor of American Indian Heritage Month, the North Carolina Museum of History sponsors the State-Wide Native American Celebration. This year, the Native American Student Association (NASA) will volunteer as activity facilitators for youth workshops, aid in the preparation of venue decor, and assist the director of the program by accommodating guests, welcoming participants and organizing shift changes. If you would like to join us in our efforts by volunteering for this service learning project please contact Johnathan Locklear at jmlockle@ncsu.edu or for more information about the event go to http://ncmuseumofhistory.org/

Cheraw Language Lesson
Monday, Nov. 19th • 6:00 pm – 8:00 pm • 126 Witherspoon Student Center, Washington Sankofa Room
Colonization of the Americas and misguided United States governmental policies have led to the destruction of Indigenous languages. Through his research, Duane Brayboy-Williams (Lumbee) has begun the process of language revitalization of Cheraw dialect of the Catawba language. Come out to hear more about this journey to regain one’s language and learn words and phrases of an Eastern Siouan language. This event is sponsored by Phi Sigma Nu Fraternity, Inc. For further information please contact Johnathan Locklear at jmlockle@ncsu.edu.

Drum Workshop
Tuesday, Nov. 20th • 6:00 pm – 8:00 pm • 3118 Talley Student Center
Come join the Brothers of the Beta Chapter of Epsilon Chi Nu Fraternity Inc. as they host the annual drum workshop for Native American Heritage Month. We will be discussing the history of the Native Drum as well as its importance in Native culture. Everyone attending will also break into groups and make drums to get a feel for how the process works. For more information contact Kaleb Clark at kclark@ncsu.edu.

Dream Catcher Workshop
Monday, Nov. 26th • 6:00 pm – 8:00 pm • 126 Witherspoon Student Center, Washington Sankofa Room
Interested in creating your own Dreamcatcher? Everyone is invited to join the sisters of Sigma Omicron Epsilon, Inc. for the annual Dreamcatcher workshop. Come out and learn about the importance of the Dreamcatcher in Native Culture and make one for yourself! This event is hosted by Sigma Omicron Epsilon, Inc. and is open to the entire student body. For further information and to RSVP please contact Brittany Anstead at bcanstea@ncsu.edu.
