“A Culture Not a Costume” Program
October 29, 2014, 11am - 3pm – NC State Brickyard

Join us for this cultural sensitivity program, sponsored by the Multicultural Greek Council and the University Activities Board, about the importance of respecting and honoring various cultures and identities, especially during Halloween season. For more information, contact Megan Jones at mljone17@ncsu.edu.

Tribal Tuesdays
November 4, 11, 18 and 25, 2014

This social media program, held every Tuesday during the month of November, encourages Native American students to display their cultural identity and heritage through fashion. Native American students will take pictures of how they express their cultural identity and post them on Multicultural Student Affairs social media outlets with the #tribaltuesdays hashtag on Instagram and Twitter. Please follow Multicultural Student Affairs at @ncstatemsa (Instagram) and @ncsu_msa (Twitter) to participate and view.

Native American Student Association Frybread Sale
November 5, 2014, 11am - 2pm – NC State Brickyard

Come support and enjoy a traditional Native American delicacy, frybread. The student leaders of the Native American Student Association will be fundraising for their 25th annual Spring Pow-Wow. Sale begins at 11am in the Brickyard.

Native American Culture Night
November 6, 2014, 7-9pm – Talley Student Center, Room 3285

This signature event offers the entire NC State campus community the opportunity to learn more about United States indigenous culture through interactive cultural presentations and demonstrations. This program is open to all NC State students, staff and faculty.

Indigenous Speaker Series Presents “Tribal Jackpot: History and Overview of Indian Casinos and Gaming” with Heather McMillian Nakai
November 10, 2014, 7-9pm – Talley Student Center, Room 3285

Come learn about the history, overview and current issues of Indian casinos and gaming with a representative from the National Indian Gaming Commission, Staff Attorney Heather McMillian Nakai.

Veteran’s Day Recognition
Monday, November 11, 2014, 11am – 3pm – NC State Campus, The Brickyard

Join us out on the Brickyard as we show our support and gratitude to all of our veterans on this national day of recognition. Information about indigenous veterans will be given out and participants will have an opportunity to express their gratitude by painting on our “Thank You” sign which will be display at all our major events throughout the year.

American Indian Science and Engineering Society (AISES) National Conference
November 13-15, 2014 – Orlando, FL

A delegation of members of the American Indian Science and Engineering Society (AISES) will represent NC State at the 35th National AISES Conference. Students will interact with other students from across the country in efforts of recruitment, retention and networking in the STEM disciplines. The National AISES Conference attracts the nation’s brightest American Indian students, educators and professionals in STEM fields. The 3-day event includes a career fair, dynamic nationally-recognized speakers, panel discussions and workshops.
Native American Student Art Show
November 13, 2014, 6-8pm – Witherspoon Student Center, Room 126

This open student Native American Art Show competition brings young Native American artists to NC State. Artists represent kindergarten through collegiate levels from the local Wake County Title VII Indian Education schools and universities. A variety of artistic media will be on display followed by an awards reception for division and overall winners.

Rock Your Mocs
November 14, 2014, 11am - 2pm – Multicultural Student Affairs, 1107 Pullen Hall

For many indigenous people, moccasins have historically been their first form of shoes. They are created out of deer, elk, buffalo and moose hide. Each tribal nation has its own moccasin design that is tied to families, legends and ceremonies. “Rock Your Mocs” is a social movement across the U.S. designed to raise awareness of indigenous people. As part of Native American Heritage Month, we encourage the NC State Native community to wear their moccasins all day and to stop by our office to take a picture in their mocs. For those who do not have any moccasins, you can still stop by and create your own “mocs.”

Tomahawk’d Cultural Food Demonstration
November 17, 2014, 6-8pm – Park Shops, Room 210

Join us for a traditional cultural food competition among the six Native American student organizations. Teams representing one of the six Native American student organizations will compete in a contest similar to the television show “Chopped,” where teams will demonstrate and offer samples of traditional Native American cuisine.

Alpha Pi Omega Sorority, Inc Presents “Dots vs. Feathers: Discussing Stereotypes and Perceptions of Indigenous and Indian-American Cultures”
November 18, 2014, 6-8pm – Location TBD

Come listen to a panel discussion and presentation about the negative stereotypes and misconceptions of Indigenous and Indian-American cultures hosted by the Sisters of Alpha Pi Omega, Inc. For more information, please contact Brittany Hammonds at bnhammon@ncsu.edu.

Native American Trivia Bowl
November 19, 2014, 6-8pm – Witherspoon Student Center, Room 126

The Trivia Bowl is a quiz competition for student organizations to come and compete against one another in trivia quiz about United State Indigenous culture and history. For more information, please contact Ian T. Stroud, itstroud@ncsu.edu.

Sigma Omicron Epsilon Sorority, Inc Presents the Annual Dream Catcher Workshop
November 20, 2014, 6-8pm – Talley Student Center, Room 3285

Interested in creating your own Dream Catcher? Everyone is invited to join the sisters of Sigma Omicron Epsilon, Inc. for their annual Dream Catcher workshop. Come out and learn about the importance of the Dream Catcher in Native culture and make one for yourself. This event is hosted by Sigma Omicron Epsilon, Inc. and is open to the entire student body. For further information, please contact Jessica Anstead at jlanstea@ncsu.edu.

19th Annual American Indian Heritage Celebration
November 22, 2014, 11am - 4pm – North Carolina Museum of Natural History, Raleigh, NC

Each year, in honor of American Indian Heritage Month, the North Carolina Museum of Natural History sponsors this statewide Native American celebration. This year, some of our student organizations (Native American Student Association, American Indian Science and Engineering Society, Alpha Pi Omega Sorority, Sigma Omicron Epsilon Sorority, Epsilon Chi Nu Fraternity and Phi Sigma Nu Fraternity) will volunteer as activity facilitators for youth workshops, aid in the preparation of venue décor and assist the director of the program by accommodating guests and welcoming participants. If you would like to join us in our efforts by volunteering for this service-learning project please contact Ian T. Stroud at itstroud@ncsu.edu, or for more information about the event, go to ncmuseumofhistory.org.