A 40th Anniversary Celebration

Join us for a week-long celebration of the 40th anniversary of the groundbreaking Title IX, the law that prohibits discrimination on the basis of gender in all university student services and academic programs.

Monday, November 12

What does Title IX mean to you?
11:00 a.m. – 1:00 p.m., Brickyard, NC State

Join us in the Brickyard to have your photo taken and share your thoughts on what Title IX has meant for you. Photos will be used in an upcoming display.

Tuesday, November 13

Title IX Documentary Screening and Discussion
7:00 p.m. – 8:00 p.m., Auditorium, D. H. Hill Library

Heidi Grappendorf, scholar-in-residence of the Women’s Center, will show clips from documentaries and lead a discussion on both the positive ramifications and unintended consequences of the amendment.

Wednesday, November 14

Title IX Anniversary Panel Discussion
3:00 p.m. – 4:00 p.m., Assembly Room, D. H. Hill Library

NC State panelists Joanne Woodard, vice provost for Institutional Equity & Diversity, Michelle Lee, associate athletic director, and Heidi Grappendorf, scholar-in-residence of the Women’s Center, will discuss Title IX’s far-reaching impacts, particularly on women’s athletics.

Thursday, November 15

Women’s Basketball Game
7:00 p.m., Reynolds Coliseum, NC State

Join us as the Wolfpack Women’s Basketball team takes on the Longwood Lancers. During the game we will celebrate the achievements of women athletes in NC State’s history.
